One-day Mushroom Workshop

Learn about shitake, oyster, maitake, and reishi mushroom production from log inoculation through harvest. Hands-on portion of the workshop will involve inoculation of the logs. Participants will also learn about the ecological role of mushrooms as decomposers and will learn about using mushrooms in permaculture systems.

Cost: $45

Bring a lunch. Beverages and light snack will be provided.

About Mark Cohen - Permaculture designer, organic farmer, apiculturalist, mycologist, philosopher, business consultant, and co-founder of Far Valley Farm, a twenty year old intentional community. Mark is the Executive Director of the Belize Agroforestry Research Center, a permaculture research and teaching facility based in Southern Belize. He has been practicing permaculture and sustainable agriculture since 1977. He has taught ethnobotany, cultural ecology, systems analysis, and agricultural design both in the US and internationally.
